

ABSTRACT

2 A portable collectibles storage and display case is protects collectibles mounted on a base from damage by individually securing the collectible base within the case with 4 the collectible itself in noncontact with another object. The portable case is modular in that several identical cases can be secured together, both stacked and side-by-side. The 6 combined side-by-side cases are linked through a releasable hinge on each side so the cases can be easily hinged open on one side hinge to display their contents by releasing 8 the hinge connection on the other side. With the cases combinable back-to-back, frontto-front, and vertically stacked, any such combination of cases is available to the user.
10 Side-by-side combinations can be hinged opened for viewing without fully separating the cases. Stacked cases similarly hinge open together.